

Scene 1: The Happy Monkey

Once upon a time, a clever monkey lived on a tall jamun tree near a big river. He spent his days joyfully eating sweet jamuns and swinging through the branches.

Scene 2: A New Friend

One day, a crocodile came to the riverbank and asked the monkey for a fruit. The kind monkey tossed down some jamuns, and soon they became best friends.

Scene 3: The Crocodile's Wife

The crocodile took jamuns home to his wife. She tasted them and said, 'If the fruits are so sweet, the monkey's heart must be sweeter! I want to eat his heart!'

Scene 4: An Invitation

The next day, the crocodile invited the monkey to visit his home. 'Hop on my back, and I'll take you across the river,' he said. The monkey agreed.

Scene 5: The Secret Plan

While crossing the river, the crocodile revealed, 'My wife wants to eat your heart!' The monkey was shocked but didn't panic.

Scene 6: A Clever Idea

The monkey quickly said, 'Oh no! I left my heart back in the tree. Take me back, and I'll get it for you.' The crocodile believed him and turned around.

Scene 7: The Escape

As soon as they reached the tree, the monkey leapt onto a branch and shouted, 'You foolish crocodile! You can't take someone's heart like that!' The crocodile swam away, ashamed.

Moral of the Story

Quick thinking can help you escape even the toughest situations.