

The Boy Who Cried Wolf ■■ – A Lesson on Honesty

There was once a shepherd boy who watched his flock of sheep near a village.

For fun, he ran toward the village calling for help, and the villagers came running

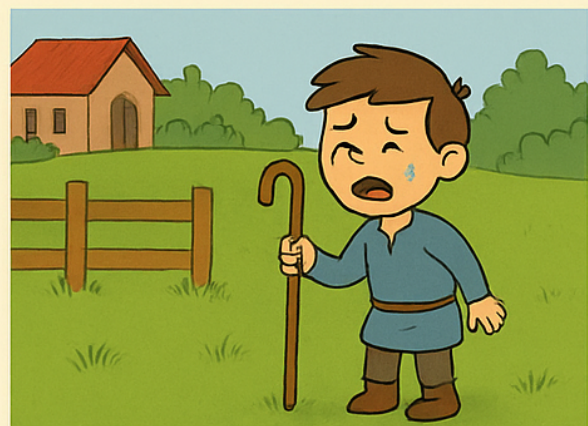

But when they saw no wolf, the boy laughed. He did this repeatedly, and the villagers grew

One day, a wolf actually came out from the forest. The boy cried, "Wolf! Wolf!"

This time, none of the villagers came to help, and the wolf chased all the sheep away

MORAL: Liars are not believed even when they speak the truth.
