

The Cap Seller and the Monkeys

Once, a cap seller was traveling with a basket of caps.

Feeling tired, he lay down under a tree to rest.

When he awoke, he saw the monkeys in the tree wearing the caps.

He had an idea. He threw his own cap down, and the monkeys did the same.

He collected all the caps and went on his way.

He collected all the caps and went on his way.

Cleverness and presence of mind can solve any problem.
